READING SECTION:

A Heart for Helping Others

Dear Mr. President,
My name is Alex. I'm six years old and live in New York City with my parents and little sister. I saw a Syrian boy on TV the other day. He was badly hurt during the war. He was in the hospital in Syria. If I were him, I would feel really scared. So, I want to help him. Can you please bring him to my home? We want to be his family. Please tell him that his brother, who is a very kind boy, will be Alex. In my school, I have a friend from Syria, Omar. I will introduce him to Omar. We can all play together. He will teach us his language. We can teach him English, too. I will share my bike, and I will teach him how to ride it. Thank you very much. I can't wait for him to come!
