READING SECTION:

Ron, the Broken Robot

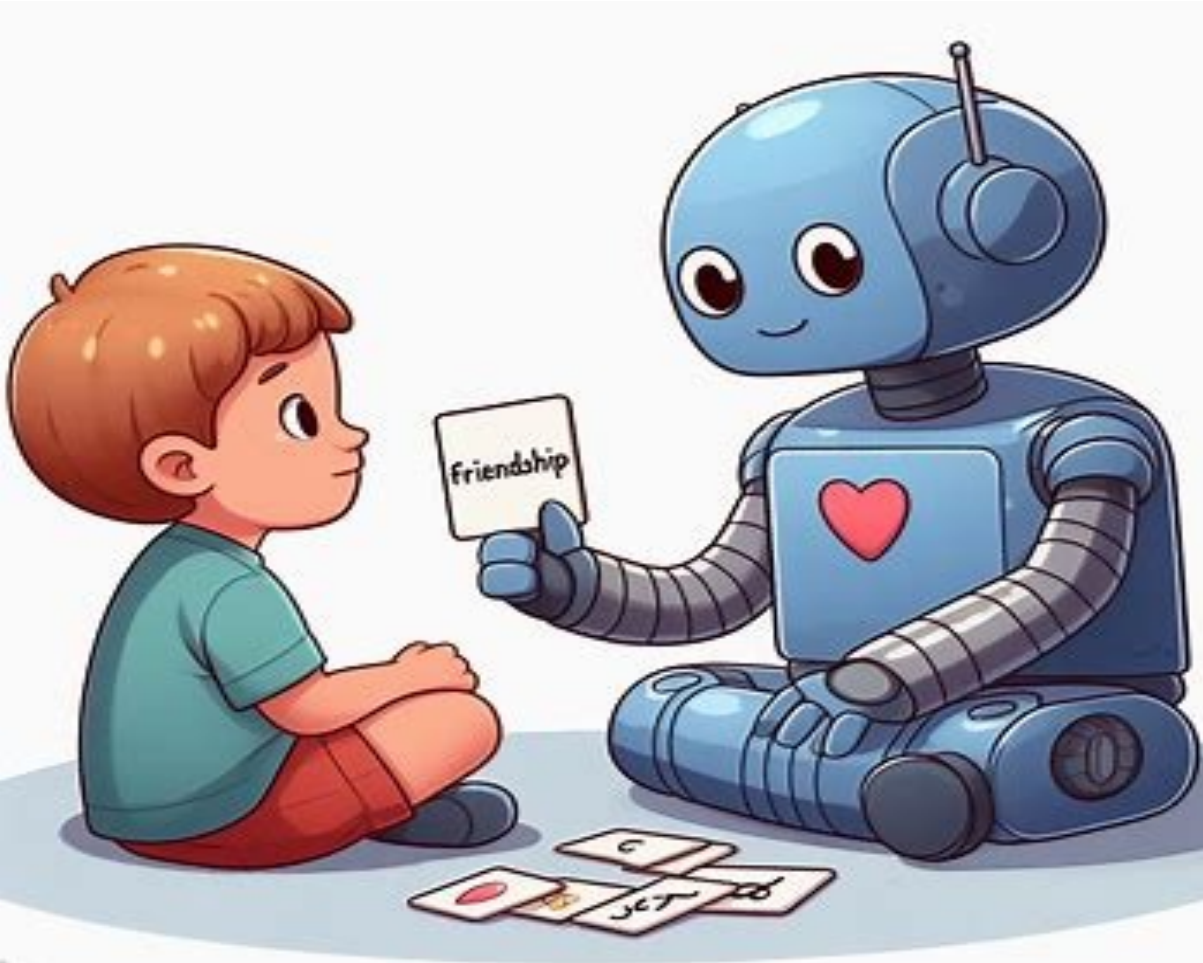

Barney has no friends. Other children have their own robot friends, called B-bots. B-bots are made to be best friends for children. Barney gets one for his birthday. Its name is Ron, but he is broken. So Barney must teach Ron how to be his best friend, Barney teaches Ron friendship rules: be nice to your friends and try to be helpful. With time, Barney and Ron become best friends. Then, Barney discovers that B-bots are making children lonelier. But Barney doesn't feel lonely with Ron. That's because Ron has a special code: Barney's friendship rules!! Barney shares Ron's code with all the other B-bots. Now, B-bots help children make new friends. Children aren't lonely anymore. They have real friends.
