READING SECTION:

Dream Green School

Imagine a school with no walls. Students can't stop smiling there. And they don't want to leave. That's Green School! Green School is a beautiful bamboo building in the jungle in Bali. The building teaches students to live in an environmentally friendly way. It uses natural light, and electricity comes from solar panels. Students grow their own vegetables in its garden. Like most schools, there is a gym, a music room, and a science laboratory. Students study subjects like math, languages, and computer studies. Each week, however, Green School students leave the school and go into the local community. They learn about local problems and carry out projects to solve them. For example, two schoolgirls were worried about pollution from plastic bags. They started a campaign. Now plastic bags are banned in Bali! Green School students learn to become active, creative, and practical. Would you like to learn this way?
