READING SESSION

Life in Space

Sally: Today I'm talking to astronaut John Glenn.
What's life in space like, John?

John: We float everywhere in space. So, sleeping is a little different. We tie our sleeping bags to a wall or a ceiling. We can sleep anywhere.

Sally: How do you wash?

John: We take sponge baths to keep clean. This way, we can save water.

Sally: I'm curious how toilets work in space.

John: We tie our bodies to the toilet. Then we use a machine like a vacuum cleaner. It sucks the waste away.

Sally: Wow, being an astronaut sounds hard!

John: That's true. I had to train many years. But going to space is so exciting!

Sally: I'd like to be an astronaut. What should I do?

John: You must study science or math in college.

Sally: Thanks. I will study hard so that I can be a great astronaut.
