READING SECTION:

King Sejong's Timeless Secret

In an old village in Seoul, a young boy named Jinwon lived with his grandmother. One day, while exploring the attic, Jinwon found an ancient book titled "The Real Secret of King Sejong'." His heart raced with excitement. Could this be about King Sejong the Great?

As Jinwon began reading the book, he learned of King Sejong's accomplishments, such as creating Hangul and making other great inventions. Actually, the king had a secret. He had a gold necklace that possessed the power to see into the future. He saw towering skyscrapers in Seoul, lightning- fast trains, and exciting K-pop concerts. These experiences were the source of his knowledge that made normal people have a convenient life. However, a challenge came about. King Sejong lost the necklace. Without it, he could not have used his special skills to make his country better.

Jinwon recalled a similar necklace at his home. Thinking about its importance, he felt he needed to do something. He took the necklace to King Sejong's statue in the village square, showing that he knew his secret and wanted to support him. By morning, the book had vanished, but instead, there was a note: "Thank you for returning my necklace. I've been looking for it for so long. Even though it was gone, I tried my best to make my country a better place. I want this secret to stay between us. Now, I can rest in peace. Thank you again. - King Sejong
