READING SECTION:

Your Name Your History

Most people have two names. Your last name comes from your parents. But once, people only had first names. Then where did last names come from? Long ago, people lived in small villages. They all had different first names. But the villages grew. Then, there were too many Johns and Marys! So, everyone needed another name. Last names came from jobs, places, or looks. For example, think about three men named John. One John is a baker. He is named John Baker. Another John lives near the woods. He is named John Woods. The third John has light hair. He is called John White. Study your last name. You can learn a lot about your family history!
