READING SECTION:

A Math Celebration

"For me, tomorrow is special because it's Pie Day!" said our math teacher, Mr. Banks. So, for our homework, he told us to prepare a way to celebrate in class. I was confused. I decided to ask my friend Kevin after class.

Mia:

Why does Mr. Banks want to celebrate pies? Kevin: Not pies! Pi (π) - the number! March 14th is Pi Day because the date is 3.14. That's the first three numbers of pi.

Mia:

Oh! So how can we celebrate it?

Kevin: Well, pi is mathematically used with circles. So,

Mia:

How about wearing clothes with circles on?

I can do that. I have a spotty T-shirt. Shall we bring some round food?

Kevin: Yes. We can bring apples, pizza, and pie! Mia: And why don't we organize a treasure hunt? We can hide coins in the classroom. They are circular.

Kevin: Good idea! Let's hide three dimes, one dollar coin, and four quarters!

Mia: Cool! Pi Day is going to be fun!
